

Released as the follow-up single to the group's first hit for Atlantic Records, "I'll Be Around," "Could It Be I'm Falling in Love" would equal the success of its' predecessor, peaking at number one on the R&B chart and number four on the Pop chart and selling over one million copies. The song also found success in the UK, peaking at number eleven on the UK Singles Chart.

Could It Be I'm Falling In Love

AS RECORDED BY THE SPINNERS

♩ = 102

REPEAT AND FADE

